On October 19, EnviroSpec surprised Staff Sergeant Jared Greene of Fayetteville, NC, with the gift of a lifetime – and it's one that should help secure his family's future for years to come.

A November 2013 government report showed that the unemployment rate for post 9/11 veterans was at 10 percent for the third month in a row. That is equivalent to 246,000 out-of-work men and women who once served in protecting our nation's freedom.

The Envirospec team aims to help reduce these numbers by continuing to sponsor one Washin' Warrior per year. More than reducing unemployment numbers, however, the Washin'

Envirospec owners John and Shelley Allison are known for their support of various charitable organizations. Both are Vietnam veterans who have a special place in their hearts for members of the military.

In 2012, Envirospec began the Washin' Warriors Project, a program for out-of-work veterans who could use help in starting a new career – i.e., pressure washing. In this case, Jared was the perfect candidate.

Warriors project is giving these veterans something they very much need – hope, support, and a sense of purpose and pride.

We at Envirospec are doing what we can to help these veterans get back on their feet and become successful, but we can only do so much. They need your support as well. So if you have a special cleaning project that needs the attention of a certified professional then please consider giving this special young man and his family a chance. Thank you, John & Shelley

WHAT WILL A VETERAN BRING TO THE JOB SITE? EDUCATION, TRAINING, VALUES....

Veterans bring all this and more to the workplace. There are many good reasons to hire a veteran. Here are a two more.

Respect for Procedures

Veterans have gained a unique perspective on the value of accountability.

Conscious of Health and Safety Standards

Thanks to extensive training, veterans are aware of health and safety protocols both for themselves and the welfare of others. This is especially important if you are going to hire a power wash contractor who does not understand the dangers behind the cleaning products they will be using.

Veterans also know what it means to do "an honest day's work."
