

ENVIROSPEC

Better chemicals at a fraction of the price.

You're paying for liquid detergents that are 98% water.

Why not buy the powder and add your own water?

Forty years ago, a contract cleaner named John Allison noticed that all of the detergent products he was buying were about 98% water and 2% chemical. That means even today, you're paying a premium price for someone else's water! On top of that, you're paying to ship all that heavy water.

Back in a home-made lab, John formulated super-concentrated detergents in powder form. He started selling them to contractors, who found that they outcleaned everything else on the market.

Now, John's company EnviroSpec sells cleaning chemicals with SuperFlo Polymer™ for every need, in powder form. Smart contractors have found that all that excess expense now becomes excess profit!
