

The passing of a friend...

Scott Lindholm

April 30, 1956 - April 23, 2011

The world is a lesser place today without Scott and many lives will feel the pain of his absence forever. But the angels in heaven are rejoicing for they have seen the arrival of a special person that God has sent to them - a person who will continue to touch our hearts, help steer our lives and watch over us until we once again meet.

Scott was a best friend to so many people and we thank God that we were honored to be two of those people. Everyone he met was another heart he touched and every heart he touched, a better person was born.

We have been blessed by his presence in our life.
